

The Passion of Harry Bingo:

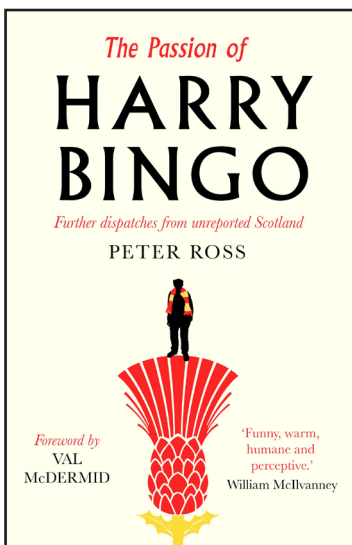

Further Dispatches From Unreported Scotland

Peter Ross

Publication Date: 17th August 2017
Category: Scotland, Journalism

Format: B paperback
RRP: £8.99

ISBN: 9781910985816
Extent: 350

ABOUT THIS BOOK

Quirky, hilarious, always engaging and often moving, The Passion of Harry Bingo enters the lives of some of Britain's least known but most amazing characters. From Orkney to the Sussex coast they bring light and laughter into all our lives: the Sikh pipe band and Wall of Death riders, herring queens and drag queens, crazy golfers and Harry himself, still following Partick Thistle in his nineties. This second selection of Peter Ross's sideways looks at life in Scotland – and beyond – follows the highly successful and acclaimed Daunderlust.

SALES AND MARKETING HIGHLIGHTS

- Peter Ross is an award-winning journalist
- Contains a foreword from Val McDermid
- Supportive quote from William McIlvanney

ALSO BY THIS AUTHOR

Daunderlust, £8.99
ISBN: 9781908737762

'Funny, warm, humane and perceptive.'
-William McIlvanney

'His stories are always a joy.'
-Ian Rankin

'The impression left by Daunderlust is of a nation teeming with vibrancy, character and individuality.'
-Alastair Mabbott, The Herald

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

A six time winner at the Scottish Press Awards, Peter Ross is one of Scotland's best feature writers. He has written for The Guardian, The List, The Face, The Big Issue, as well as spending eight years on The Sunday Herald. He is a frequent guest on Radio Scotland's Shereen Nanjiani show and other programmes.

AUTHOR LOCATION

Glasgow, Scotland

 www.facebook.com/SandstonePress

 @SandstonePress

Book Source Distribution:
orders@booksource.net
<http://www.booksource.net/>
0141 642 9192

Sandstone Press:
taran@sandstonepress.com
www.sandstonepress.com
01349 865 484